

When to use this form

An objection is a request to formally review a decision. Use this form to either agree or disagree with an objection.

The Australian Government Department of Human Services have previously notified you that the other parent/non-parent carer in your child support case has lodged an objection to a child support decision.

Responses to objections may be made in writing, by completing this form or over the phone.

You will need to include details of the objection that you are responding to and evidence to support your response.

Important information

If you intend to respond to the objection you must do so within 28 days from the date you receive the copy of the objection. If you live outside Australia in a reciprocating jurisdiction, you have 90 days to respond. If you do not intend to respond to the objection, you must advise us as soon as possible so that the outcome can be finalised.

We must consider any relevant information that has been provided by both parties, in relation to the decision that is being objected to.

A copy of your response and supporting documents to the objection will be given to the other party. The term 'other party' will generally include the other parent and may also include any non-parent carers. Your personal and confidential information contained on the next page (Notes & Your confidential details 2 of 2) will not be given to the other party.

The other party can reply to your response. If this happens you will be given a copy of the information provided by them. An open exchange of information means all parties have the opportunity to respond and comment on the information used by the decision maker.

Evidence

You may provide appropriate evidence that supports the reason(s) why you agree or disagree with the objection. Providing a response to the objection with missing information or incomplete answers could result in the return of your objection. If your response contains obscene or offensive material, we will not consider it.

Online services
