Purpose of this form

Centrelink uses the details on this form as part of your partner's review. Information provided on this form may be used to reassess your partner's entitlement to Centrelink payments or services.

You and your partner will be contacted if there is any change to the amount you or your partner are paid or if more information is required.

Having a partner

You have a partner if we consider you a member of a couple. We consider you a member of a couple if you are either:

- married
- in a registered relationship
- in a de facto relationship.

A registered relationship is where your relationship is registered under a law of a state or territory.

A de facto relationship is where you and your partner are in a relationship similar to a married couple but are not married or in a registered relationship.

We may still consider you a member of a couple if you are not physically living with your partner. For example, your partner may fly-in fly-out or live away for work, like military or oil rig workers.
