What are essential course or material costs?

Essential course costs are those costs which all students in a tertiary course, or a single Masters/Doctorate student, must incur in order to undertake their course. Such costs may include:

- education institution fees: union, sports, library, administration, amenities or laboratory fees, levies or other compulsory fees charged by an approved education institution, and
- textbooks and equipment: cost of books, published articles, stationery and other equipment items verified in writing by the education institution as being necessary for all students studying the approved course.

Essential course costs do not include:

- tuition or course fees charged by an institution
- items which would be expected to be provided by the education institution, for example, musical instruments, sewing machines, typewriters or computers.

What documents do I need?

For items that have been purchased:

- fully itemised receipts showing name of business, details of each item purchased, date and amount of each item purchased (see question 6), or
- where items have been purchased from another student, a fully itemised receipt showing name of seller, details of each item purchased, date and amount of each item purchased (see question 6). A quote from a retailer (for example, bookshop or stationery supplier) showing the recommended retail price of the item(s) must also be provided, and
- the signature of the Head of School/Faculty at the appropriate education institution, certifying that the items claimed are essential for all students undertaking the course (see question 9).

For items that have not yet been purchased:

- fully itemised quotes showing name of business, date and details of each item to be purchased
- the signature of the Head of School/Faculty at the appropriate education institution, certifying that the items claimed are essential for all students undertaking the course (see question 9)
- you need to return your receipts for the above items within 3 weeks of receiving the Additional Incidentals Allowance. For information on how to return your receipts refer to Returning this form on page 3.

How much am I entitled to?

Only costs above certain amounts, called prescribed amounts, can be paid. This means you must spend over the prescribed amount to be eligible for Additional Incidentals Allowance. The prescribed amounts may be different depending on how long you are studying.

The prescribed amounts can be found in the publication A guide to Australian Government payments. For more information, go to servicessaustralia.gov.au/paymentsguide

A maximum amount of $2,080 is payable in any one calendar year.

1. You must account for all expenditure by providing receipts. This includes the Incidentals Allowance which you have already received, your own contribution and expenditure beyond the prescribed amount.
2. No arrangements will be entered into to pay an account at your education institution or to a bookshop.
