

Navigating death

It's never too early to tell people what you want to happen when you die.

You can start to prepare you and your family by:

- writing a will
- making your wishes known, like:
  - organ and tissue donation
  - funeral or memorial service
  - burial or cremation
- updating a superannuation beneficiary
- talking to a financial counsellor.

Find out what to organise before you die.

If someone you know recently died, we also have information on what to do, who to tell, and what help is available. Scan the QR code or go to servicesaustralia.gov.au/death

