

When to use this form

Use this form to extend child support until the last day of the secondary school year in which the child, or relevant dependent child turns 18 years of age.

Important information

You can only apply if:

- you already have a child support assessment or child support agreement in place
- you are the person entitled to receive child support at the time you make the application and/or you are the parent where it is an application for a relevant dependent child
- your child will turn 18 years of age on or before the last day of the secondary school year
- your child is at least 17 years of age now, and
- your child will be in full-time secondary education when they turn 18 years of age.

If your child is already 18 years of age, do not complete this form. In some circumstances, we can still accept an application after your child has turned 18. The circumstances must be exceptional, outside of your control and have prevented you from applying before your child turned 18.

If you think you meet this criteria, call us on 131 272. We will then determine if we can accept a late application.

Your Family Tax Benefit payments may be affected if you do not apply for an extension for the child who is turning 18 years of age and in full-time secondary education. For more information, go to servicessaustralia.gov.au/csandftba

Online account

You can apply to extend child support for your child using your servicessaustralia.gov.au/childsupportonline account.

You can access your Child Support online account through myGov. myGov is a secure way to access a range of government services online with one username and password. You can create a myGov account at my.gov.au and link your Child Support online account to it.

If you have a child support agreement, you cannot apply to extend your child support online. You must use this form.

Where you have a child support agreement in place

An agreement is a written document, signed by both parents, setting out how much child support should be paid. If you are applying for continuation of your agreement, the other parent may also need to sign this form.

If your child support assessment started with a child support agreement and the agreement states that child support is to end when the child turns 18 years of age, the child support assessment cannot be extended. You can still make a new agreement to continue child support before your child turns 18 years of age. You can then apply to extend the new agreement using this form if both parents sign the form.

If you are not sure how your agreement might affect this application, go to servicessaustralia.gov.au/csturning18 or call us on 131 272.

13 Name of the course being completed, for example, Year 12.

In some circumstances, we may need to check with the school that the course being completed is full-time secondary education.

14 What is the last day of the school year for your child?

The last day of school means the later of:

- the day determined by the secondary school to be the last day of the period of exams for the child's year level, or
- the day determined by the secondary school to be the last day of classes for the school year.

You may be asked to provide evidence if the other party disputes this date.
