How to complete this form

Supporting evidence of shipment details must be attached. Claims must be lodged within 6 months of date of shipment.

Column A: The name of the transport company used to ship the goods. Where a supplier invoice is used as evidence, the code 'SPL' should be used.

Column B: The date of the shipment.

Column C: Where the goods departed from.

Column D: The final destination of the goods.

Column E: Enter one of the following:

- DD – a Door to Door shipment (the most common)
- DW – a Door to Wharf shipment
- WD – a Wharf to Door shipment
- WW – a Wharf to Wharf shipment

Wharf means the port facility, within the wharf gate. Anything beyond the wharf gate is considered a door.

Column F: A description of the goods shipped.

Column G: High Density refers to goods that stow at or below 1.1m³ per tonne, for example, cement, sand, molasses and paint.

Column H: If some of the shipment details are not on the invoice, a consignment note showing these details should be provided.

Column I: Invoice number from either the transport company or other invoice used as supporting evidence.

Column J: Freight costs must be paid prior to lodging a claim.

Column K: Eligible freight costs can include fuel surcharge and wharfage fees. GST and service fees, for example, administration, accounting, insurance or quarantine fees are not considered part of the freight charge.

Column L: Dry or refrigerated (reefer) freight.

Column M: If the shipment was a full container/trailer, the length of the unit is to be entered, for example, 20ft / 6.1m or 40ft / 12.2m. If the shipment was less than a full container or trailer, leave this column blank.

Column N: If a full container or trailer load is being shipped, provide the number of containers or trailers. If not a full container or trailer, leave this blank.

Column O: Pallets should be entered if the shipment was less than a full container or trailer and pallets were used – this does not apply to skids or slip sheets. Number of head should be entered if the shipment was livestock.

Column P: Weight must be provided. If such evidence is not available, volume must be provided. Weight is needed to meet government reporting requirements. We encourage you to also provide volume as this will allow us to calculate and provide the highest amount of assistance possible. For livestock shipments, you are also encouraged to provide weight and volume if possible.

Column Q: Volume is to be provided, where possible.
